It's Over
Notes for Next Year's Vacation

Newspaper desks toward the end of Livestock Show Week look as though a Florida hurricane had gotten this far north — and seeing one of the other boys sweep his desk clean this morning reminds me that the Livestock Show is indeed about over.

"Park Here — and Play" is the intriguing title of one of three booklets just off the press for the Arkansas Resources & Development Commission. Wayne C. Fletcher, executive director.

Mr. Fletcher, who will be remembered as a federal works engineer stationed in Hope for a number of years, and his staff have gotten out another in the series of glamor publications disclosing Arkansas as a prime vacation-land for visitors — and, I might add, telling a lot of Arkansans a lot about their own state they didn't know.

"Park Here — and Play" is a pictorial pamphlet on the river and mountain resorts of the state. "An Invitation to Arkansas" is a highway-map-type folder with giant pictures and a detailed state map.

"Facts About Arkansas" is a 40-page book bringing up a heavy statistical report on our state, but including some beautiful map work.

I don't care where you're from these three publications will interest you.

They are magnificent material to make notes from on next year's vacation. For the pictures they contain of the Arkansas mountain country remind you that just north of here, in our own state, is a land as beautiful and strange as better-known spots in distant regions.

Steel Talks Revived Again

By The Associated Press

Contract talks that may settle the threatened steel strike resumed Friday.

But the coal strike, entering its fifth day, seemed likely to continue some time — possibly a long time.

The U. S. Steel corporation and the CIO United Steelworkers, resuming negotiations, have one week before an Oct. 1 strike deadline.

They are at odds over pension and insurance demands by the union. The million member steel union complied Thursday with President Truman's request for extension of the steel strike — previously set to end Sunday at midnight.

The steel industry agreed Wednesday to the extension, and also agreed to resume bargaining. The union arranged the U. S. steel talks, told 500 other steel companies Thursday that it is ready to negotiate.

A fact finding board named by Mr. Truman has vetoed a fourth round wage increase for steelworkers. But it recommended a company-paid pension and insurance program equal to 10 cents hourly per worker. The union accepted the report, but U. S. Steel balked at accepting without further bargaining.

Prospects for settling the coal strike seemed more bleak in the wake of John L. Lewis' statement Thursday that has 480,000 United Mine Workers, who had been on a three day week, now are on a "no day week."

Lewis Thursday bluntly rejected a proposed two year extension of the old UMW contract, which expired in July. He said the steel dispute is blocking a wage settlement for the miners. He reverted to his old policy of "no contract, no work."

His talks with operators of mines in the North and West here recessed to Sept. 29. Both sides reported a deadlock.

The miners walked out Monday in protest against suspension of pension and disability payments from the miners' three year old welfare fund.

The steelworkers reported Thursday that the Standard Steel works of Levistown, Pa., had accepted the fact finding board's recommendations in full. Standard Steel officials could not be reached for comment.

Bargaining sessions between the union and steel firms are to be held in various cities.

Woman Takes Life of Two Daughters

Lawrence, Mass., Sept. 23 — (UP)—Quivering little girl protested "why are you doing this to me, mama? You know I love you."

But Mrs. Sylvia Gulla, 35, a millworker's wife, ignored the plea and drowned both her daughters—Joan, 8, in a bathtub, Marilyn, three months, in a bathnet.

Confined at Danvers State (mental) hospital today for 10 days' observation, Mrs. Gulla said she had planned to take her own life. She drowned her children first because she "didn't want to leave them behind to face the disgrace of my suicide."

It was the story she told police Capt. Arthur J. Riley and medical examiner Julius Bungel when they arrived at the scene of the tragedy yesterday.

Her husband, Patrick, returned from work, found Joan drowned in the bathtub and Marilyn lifeless in her bathnet.

"After Joan was dead, I got in the bathtub with her and hit myself over the head with a stick so I would go with her," the mother said, "but I wasn't able to drown myself."

She sobbed and trembled while she told how she filled the bathnet with water and held the baby in it until she drowned.

When Joan returned from elementary school at noon, Mrs. Gulla forced her fully clothed, into the filled tub and held her under until she stopped struggling.

Why are you doing this to me, mama? were the child's last words, the mother said. "You know I love you."

Joan had celebrated her eighth birthday only the day before. A party was given by her parents. Attended by her neighborhood playmates, it was a happy affair.

But Mrs. Sylvia Gulla, 35, a millworker's wife, ignored the plea and drowned both her daughters—Joan, 8, in a bathtub, Marilyn, three months, in a bathnet.

Confined at Danvers State (mental) hospital today for 10 days' observation, Mrs. Gulla said she had planned to take her own life. She drowned her children first because she "didn't want to leave them behind to face the disgrace of my suicide."

Passing of Arms Bill Victory for Administration

Washington, Sept. 23 — (AP)—The administration chalked up an important victory in foreign policy today on the strength of the senate's 55 to 24 approval of an overseas arms program.

The senate reached its decision late yesterday to rearm friendly moves to make a $200,000,000 cut in the $1,314,010,000 arms bill.

The measure came through the senate with only two minor changes. This was in part a personal triumph for Senator Connally (D-Tex.) and Senator Vandenberg (R-Mich.), the two party leaders in foreign affairs who led the fight for the aid program.

Nineteen Republicans joined 36 Democrats in voting for passage. Ten Democrats and 14 Republicans voted against it.

Connally told reporters: "As chairman of the senate foreign relations committee, I am highly gratified at passage of the program and delighted over the defeat of crippling and unbecoming amendments."

In the debate, Senator Taft (R-Ohio) contended that the program contemplates arming every nation in the world that might be opposed to Russia. This, he said, "is likely to invite Russia to war."

But Vandenberg argued that the goal is "stopping aggression before it reaches us." Had the foreign aid program to date been less successful than it has been, he said, "we probably would be voting billions" fight a defensive war.

The senate vote pledged congress to a foreign arms program since the house already has approved a similar military aid bill. The amount of money to be authorized remains in doubt.

The house voted $869,55,000 to carry out the arms plan, which is $444,505,000 less than the senate figure. Senate and house members will work out their differences in conference.

The biggest surprise in the voting was the administration's strength in defeating an economy move which less worried senate leaders. The decisive vote was 46 to 32 against an amendment by Senator George (D-Ga.) to trim the appropriation which has been set aside in the arms aid program for western Europe.

Business Loans Making Brisk Comeback

New York, Sept. 23 — (AP)—Business loans by banks in all sections of the nation are making their briskest comebacks in a year. This is one of the few soothing notes in the loud discord of strike threats and currency mix-ups.

But the fall pick-up in industry and trade, encouraging as it may be, is not as strong as it was this time last year. Department store sales are still trailing last year, and even the business loan advances over last week are not nearly as impressive as the gains made at the same time last year.

The increasing total of business loans means that businessmen are more optimistic than last spring, are borrowing money to buy goods for their shelves and to expand their activities in belief that business is going to be better.

Freight car loadings are far behind last year, and likely to decline further, thanks to the "no day work week" in the coal fields. And the department of commerce and the securities and exchange commission predict that from now until the end of the year businessmen will be cutting their expenditures for new plants and equipment.

The business loan advance is the most cheerful item of the lot for the short-term outlook for business. Federal reserve number banks in 94 cities reported that last week commercial, industrial and farm loans gained a total of $104 million over the week before, an increase of 1.3 per cent. But in the same week last year the seasonal fall advance was $252 million. The banks have a total of $13.2 billion outstanding, but a year ago they had $15 billion.

Howard Gladden, administrative assistant to McMath, made this announcement last night, after the institution's board of control recommended the home be dissolved.

In its place, the board suggested, the state should build a single convalescent center to care for all the state's needy persons.

The home now houses 45 widows and daughters of Confederate veterans there are no veterans at the institution.

Four More Die Violently in Arkansas

By The Associated Press

At least four persons died violently in Arkansas today.

William H. Daugherty, 44-year-old Drew county farmer, was killed near Monticello when his truck plunged off the highway and crashed into a 30-foot ditch.

A coroner's inquest has been ordered in the death of John Wilburn Goswick, Rogers business man, who was shot fatally at his home. The victim's wife told officers her husband had looked her out of their house and had threatened to shoot himself.

Lindsey Noah Sich, 39, of Marks, Ark. (Jackson county) was shot fatally at his home. Coroner Otis Dillinger returned a verdict of suicide.

Isaac Thomas Young, 58 of Conway county, drowned when he jumped or fell into a well near his home. Coroner Robert D. Harris of Morrilton said no inquest would be held.

The deaths brought to 16 the violent death toll in Arkansas this week.

U. S. Evidence Shows Russia Making A-Bomb

By ERNEST B. VACCARO

Washington, Sept. 23 — (AP)—The United States has evidence of a recent atomic explosion in Russia — news indicating the communists at long last have learned to make an A-bomb.

President Truman disclosed this in a statement today. He then held a hour-long session with his cabinet about it.

Mr. Truman said the development emphasized the necessity for "truly effective, enforceable international control of atomic energy."

The United States has sought that through the United Nations, but has been unable to get together with Russia on how it should be carried out.

With a note of reassurance to the American people, the President said the probability that some other nation might develop an atomic bomb "has always been taken into account by us."

Quickly after the White House announcement came word from the British government in London that it also has evidence of an atomic explosion in Russia. A British statement was promised later.

In Washington, the word swept swiftly around government departments and through congress.

At the Pentagon service headquarters of the military services, there were signs of some excitement, but no officials would discuss the matter.

A spokesman for the atomic energy commission, in reply to queries, said: "We have nothing to say."

Reporters pressed Secretary of Defense Johnson for more information when he left the cabinet meeting.

"Have we made any change in the disposition of our forces since this happened?" a reporter asked. "No," Johnson replied.

"Does the cabinet know any more about this than it contained in the President's statement?" "The cabinet knows all about it," Johnson said. "It was fully informed."

"Do you have reason to believe that the first atomic explosion in Russia?" Johnson was asked. He smiled, shook his head, and refused to answer.

At the capital, Senator McMahon (D-Conn.), chairman of the joint congressional committee on atomic energy, said he would convene a committee to study the situation.

There was no official hint as to how the United States obtained its evidence of the atomic explosion in Russia.

But it is known that American scientists have been ready with delicate instruments for months to record an atomic explosion anywhere in the world.

Nothing New in MP Rail Strike

St. Louis, Sept. 23 — (AP)—The Missouri Pacific strike entered its third week today with negotiations stalled and no settlement in sight.

Representatives of the 5,000 operating employees on strike rejected today the latest settlement proposal by Guy W. Thompson, the Missouri Pacific's trustee in bankruptcy.

The walkout was called as a result of 282 union grievances, each different, over interpretation of operating rules. There was no meeting today and the vice presidents of the four striking brotherhoods sent their answer to Thompson by messenger.

Thompson's latest suggestion was that both sides agree on some method of disposing of all cases that could not be settled by negotiation "as a condition of such negotiation, and further that the strike be terminated at once."

The union leaders said in their letter "we have pointed out to you many, many times that we cannot agree to this procedure."

A spokesman for the unions said: "The question is this: has the carrier the right to violate an agreement made in good faith and then expect us to arbitrate claims arising out of their misapplication of the rules to which we have both agreed? We believe they do not."

Thompson has suggested several times that settlement of the dispute be left up to some tribunal.

The strike forced the layoff of some 20,000 other employees on the 7,200-mile carrier. It also caused a sharp increase in production costs for many industries in the ten states served by the railroad. About 2,500 workers employed by industries and other railroads had been idled as a result of the walkout.

U. S. to Set Up Base on the North Pole

Oslo, Norway, Sept. 23 — (AP)—The U. S. air force is going to establish a base on the ice at the North pole next spring.

Col. Brent Balchen, here after a flight over the Arctic, disclosed the plans to newsmen. He said the air rescue base would give American fliers experience in the polar regions.

Balchen said there wouldn't be any difficulty landing ski-equipped transport planes at the North Pole. At least 10 per cent of the polar ice surface is always suitable for landing, he declared.

Slander Suit to Be Filed in Ship Tragedy

Toronto, Sept. 23 —(UP)—Attorney for the Canada Steamship Lines said today he will file a $250,000 slander suit against those who charged Capt. William Taylor was intoxicated when fire broke out on the lakes steamer Noronic last Saturday.

Attorney Frank Wilkinson threatened the legal action after Taylor, who was master of the ship on which at least 130 passengers died, denied the drunkenness charges.

At a coroner's inquest in Cleveland yesterday, C. Ralph Wilson, a survivor of the disaster, testified that Taylor was drunk and was "being led . . . supported by two policemen" on the dock.

Capt. A. J. Galloway of the steamship company supported Taylor's denial.

"Nothing could be further from the truth," Galloway said. "I was at the side of the Noronic captain and aided him off the ship. He was badly burned and in a serious nervous condition."

Soviets Have Hinted They Held Secret

By The Associated Press
The Russians and their communist allies in Europe have thrown out repeated hints that the U. S. S. R. has broken the secret of atomic bomb production.

A year ago Andrei Y. Vishinsky, Soviet foreign minister, proclaimed in Paris that the United States no longer had a monopoly on the deadliest weapon in the history of warfare.

Vishinsky, then deputy foreign minister, made this remark Oct. 1, 1948, in a United Nations address.

There is no state which has a monopoly over atomic energy and the atomic bomb. It is useless to think of such a thing, because this is fraught with dire and dangerous consequences and miscalculations.

Almost a year before that, Vishinsky's predecessor as foreign minister, V. M. Molotov, dropped a suggestion only a bit less broad. The secret of the atomic bomb, he said, "has ceased to exist."

Samedi Soir, a Paris weekly newspaper, said July 26:

"The U. S. S. R. has the atom bomb."

The Paris newspaper said that on July 10, United States detecting devices had "revealed without possible doubt that the Russians had atom bombs exploded in their far away Asian territories."

Janie Stone has enrolled for post-graduate work in the school this year.

This, Samedi Soir said, overturned "the whole strategy of the cold war."

Americans had reason to suspect as early as last March or April that an explosion had occurred in Russia's Asiatic territories, the newspaper said.

It added that a Russian major named Silov, who had escaped in May to the British sector of Berlin and was later brought to Frankfurt and London, had reported that tests had gone on

Unruh Indicted for Mass Slaying of 12 Persons

Camden, N. J., Sept. 23 —(AP)—Howard B. Unruh was indicted yesterday for the mass slaying of persons in a 20-minute shooting orgy on River road Sept. 8.

Sixteen bills of indictment were returned by the Camden county grand jury — 13 for the persons slain and one each for the three victims wounded by the ex-artilleryman.

Sixty witnesses were on hand to describe Unruh's brief reign of terror but the grand jury summoned only six and then dismissed two of those.

Further action on the indictments will depend upon the results of mental tests being made on Unruh at the New Jersey State hospital in Trenton. If he is declared sane, the indictments will be pressed and he will be tried for murder. If judged insane, he may be committed for life.

Summer Ended, Autumn Started Today

By The Associated Press

Summer ended and autumn began Friday with generally seasonal weather across the nation.

Skies were fair in central and western states, and cloudy in the east and in the Great Lakes region.

It was rather cool from the northern plains eastward to the Great Lakes, but elsewhere temperatures generally were normal.

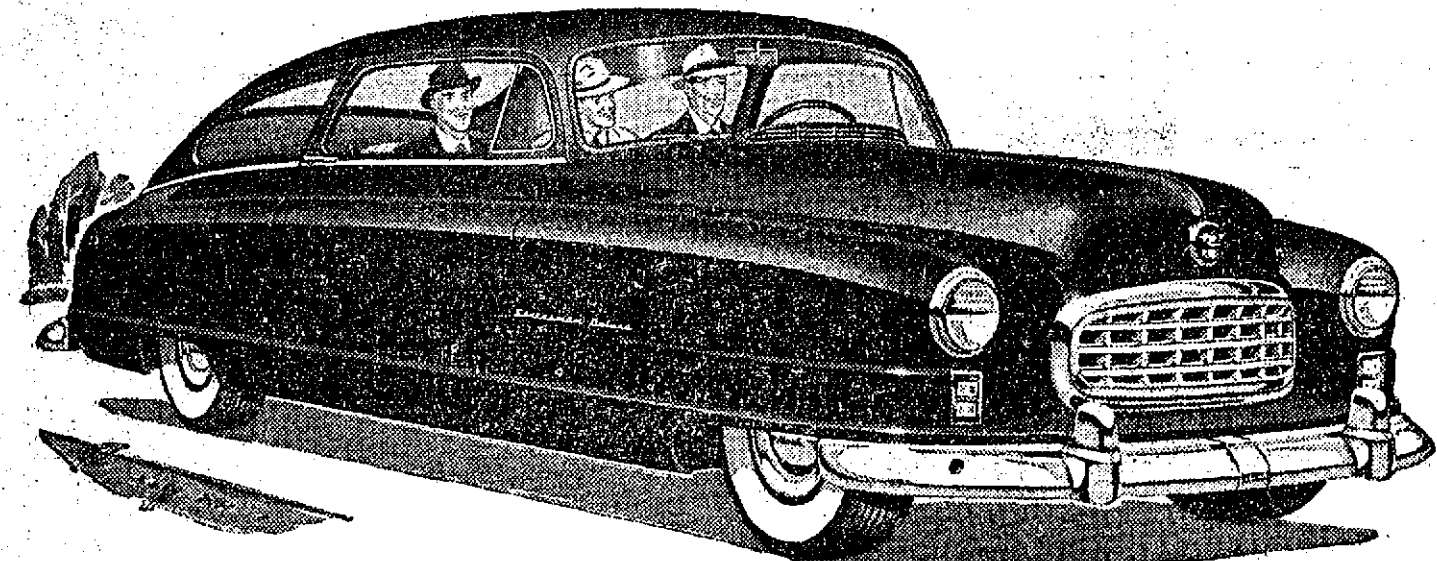

Storm warnings hoisted Thursday on the Texas-Louisiana coast were down today. Gulf of Mexico squalls brought a threat of high in Siberia and the urals region of an "atom mixture" furnished by atomic piles and that tests had been satisfactory.

Helen Hayes' Daughter Succumbs

New York, Sept. 23 — (AP) — Actress Mary MacArthur, 19, who became a celebrated figure in the theater world at birth as the "act of God baby" of actress Helen Hayes, died last night.

The young woman's death came as she was preparing to appear next month in a supporting role with her mother in the Broadway premiere of a new play.

She died at Lenox Hill hospital of what physicians termed a "generalized virus infection." Her father, Newspaperman-Playwright Charles MacArthur, and Miss Hayes were at her bedside.

The "act of God baby" label was pinned to Miss MacArthur in a widely publicized theatrical controversy. It arose when her mother was forced to withdraw from a starring Broadway role in 1929 by the approaching birth of her child.

Her withdrawal resulted in closing of the play and a subsequent dispute over actors' salary rights. Miss Hayes' side contended that having a baby is an "act of God" and could not be considered a breach of contract or other cause for withholding salaries.

Arbitrators never ruled on the "act of God" claim, but ordered that two weeks' salary be paid to the play's cast.

Miss MacArthur was taken to the hospital nine days after her coming ill while appearing with her mother in tryout performances of a new play at Westport, Conn.

The young actress, a graduate of the American Academy of Dramatic Arts, lived with her parents at a Nyack, N. Y.

At the age of seven, she played a walk-on part with her mother in a play called "The Sign of the Cross," which established Miss Hayes' fame as a portraiture royalty. For several years after that, Miss Hayes barred a stage career for her daughter.

DOROTHY DIX Single World Stay-at-Home Wife

Dear Miss Dix: I am a man of 35 and have been married ten years. Only knew my wife three months before we married. She has the sweetest and most jovial disposition I ever saw, never frets or worries about anything. But she is perfectly satisfied to stay at home and never go anywhere and to have no companionship except her mother's and sister's. She will not even attempt to make new friends or even return calls. It would be greatly to my advantage for her to meet social contacts, but she refuses to do so. And when I want to entertain my friends I always have to take them to a restaurant. She is never willing for me to bring them to our home. If I want to go to see my friends or even to a show I have to go alone. Do you think that it is good for a young couple to live just to themselves, with no outside interests or friends?

One other thing I have never been able to carry on an intelligent conversation with my wife. Answer: Well, Mr. X, if you are married to a woman with whom you cannot carry on an intelligent conversation, you must admit that the fault is yours. Even if you knew your wife for only three months before you married her, that certainly should have given you ample time to get a line on her intellectual range and find out approximately, at least, how much brains and culture she had.

Like Many Others. Evidently you did not think it worth while to try to find out what was inside the head whose prey outside you were admiring. In that way you are like thousands of other men who are so enamored of a girl's looks or so swept off their feet by her physical appeal that they never stop to consider whether she will make an entertaining life companion or not.

Of course, your wife's mental limitations explain why she does not want to meet strangers or go out into society. She feels her inferiority and it humiliates her. Also, she is doing herself a disservice and lazy and doesn't want to make the effort required in trying to entertain people.

Better far for a couple to step out too much than not to step out at all. They keep alive with their interests always fresh and alert. They have been to places and done things and they have amusing incidents to discuss and things to laugh over and are not the Gloomy Guses whose world is bounded by their homes, uninhabited only by their own families, and whose most thrilling news is that Aunt Sara's rheumatism is worse.

Dear Miss Dix: I am a bride of 23, and I want to be the right kind of a wife. I want to be unselfish and big and kind and patient with my husband, but I do not want to make the mistake of overdoing unselfishness. Do you not think that if a woman always puts her husband and children before herself, they will consider her selfish? My husband is big and admires bigness and fineness in other people, but if I put myself last, will he after a while stop caring for me, or will he think more of me?

Answer: Of course, any virtue can be overdone until it becomes a vice. Nothing easier, if a woman makes a doormat of herself for her family they kick her around and trample over her as we all do doormats. That is human and natural.

A wife can do without pretty clothes and little attentions and stay at home and slave for her family until her husband and children think that she enjoys cooking and washing and ironing and putting the house in order. But on the other hand, there is nothing that kills love quicker than selfishness and greediness and grabbiness. A wife who demands things of her husband who demands things of her husband who demands things of her husband, she soon ceases to have any tenderness for her.

The best way is to strike a happy medium. Ask what is fair for yourself, but be willing to give more than you get.

Dear Miss Dix: What is the unpardonable sin? Many writers give their conception of it as deceit, infidelity, falsehood, murder, and have based stories on them. A relative of mine insists that indolence, either mental or physical, is the unpardonable sin. She claims that we never think half as much as we should, and that we should develop every talent that we possess. What do you think is the unpardonable sin?

Answer: That is a problem that has been debated for centuries by the wisest men without their ever arriving at a conclusion. I do not think that there is any such thing as an unpardonable sin, because we are so much the hapless creatures of heredity and environment and circumstances that no one can say where our responsibility begins or ends.

I agree with your relative that laziness is about the most aggravating quality a person can have, but it always seems to me that indolence is the hardest sin to understand, the hardness that has no pity for suffering and that warms only hurts other people just for the pleasure of watching them suffer.
